ANAMADIA SDAY MORNING, JULY 28, 1858.

I COMMUNICATED. "LUMP OF GOLD LOST."

to state and he The following is from "Three Years in Calinteresting work, giving a graphic description of California society, previous to the great rush there; also, of the first operations in the mines.

but this morning fell in with a trader who bad one for sale; his price was ten dollars in specie or eighteen in gold dust. I gave bim the specie; the pick weighed about four pounds, was of rude manufacture, and without a bandle; but this appendage was readily PUT UP IN BAGS, FURNISHED AND supplied from the limb of an asb. Thus accoutred, I strode down the ravine, not doubting but that I should, before night, strike upon some deposit which would fill my pockets.

Passing groups who were engaged in digging into this bank and that, I fell in with a sailor, whom I recognized as one of the men who had been honorably discharged from the Savannab. He was looking about as if in quest of something he had lost.

He sprang to his feet, gave me his rough hand, and pointed to a cliff which overhung

There, on that erag," said he, "I have been at work ever since the peep of day, and got out several bits of gold and one good sized lump; I put them in my tin cup, when, digging away ugain, my pick glauced, struck the cup; and knocked it, gold and all, half way across this ravine. I might as well hunt a clam in the Pacific as that gold, though it was a jewel of a piece-the largest I have

So Psat down my pick, ascended the cliff, ascertained as near as possible, the direction in which the cup flew, and commenced the search. Every banch of leaves, every hole and gulley, were examined, and the cup recovered, but the gold was not in it.

Fatigued, I threw myself into the shade of a scrub oak, and went to sleep; but the gold of poor Jones glanced through my dreams -I saw, in that fantastic realm, a a small birch tree, a bubbling spring at its root, and in its fount a piece of gold. I seemed to know at the time, it was only a dream; still the picture remained in my mind so clear, so distinct, that on awakening, I identified at a glance the birch, and springing to its root found the little fount, and with a boe fetched Water..... 1.70 up the piece of gold!-the same that had been lost, for none other could answer so exactly to the description that had been given. It weighed about three ounces, but did not seem larger than the sparkling eye of the sailor, as I placed it in his band.

They may laugh who will at dreams, but new and then some Sibyl less floats through them. I tried to dream again where gold might be found; saw plenty of birch trees and fountains, but never discovered an ingot in either."

THE DEATH CLOCK.

We have recently been informed, (says the Cincinnati Gazette) of a truly wonderful clock which is said to belong to a family residing in Newport, Ky. We relate the particulars of this clock as they were related to us, leaving our readers to draw their own conclusions as to the mystery. Our informant is one that can be relied on. The clock is of simple construction and belongs to the make it keep time, consequently it has been permitted to rest in silence. A few hours before the death of Mr. Lwhich took place some time ago, the clock suddenly struck one after a silence of several months. It then continued silent until another of the family was prostrated with a fatal malady when it again struck one, and the following day the child was buried. A year elapsed, when a second child sickened and died, and the clock was particular to his death. A third child, a little boy fifteen months old, was affleted with scrofula, which baffled the skill of the physician, and on the third day of this month its remains were deposited in the grave. The clock gave the usual warning, and struck one. It never failed sounding a death knell when any of the family in whose possession it now is, were about to die. There are stranger things in heaven and earth, Horatio, than are dreamed of in our phi-
